

Hi! It's so nice to meet
you. My name is
ANNABELL.

Nine-year-old Annabell wishes that other kids could see beyond her wheelchair. When she's at home, Annabell, while very capable, feels challenged to do the same things that other kids her age can do. She can do most things other kids can do but it usually takes her longer.

Things are different for Annabell at Roundup River Ranch. Annabell attends Roundup River Ranch because it's the only camp that can accommodate her medical needs; without Roundup River Ranch, Annabell would have never been able to sit around the campfire with new friends or form hundreds of memories that she'll always treasure. It's a place where she can do EVERYTHING that others can do, something that doesn't happen in other places.

Annabell's favorite memory from camp is climbing the rock wall. She couldn't believe that she made it to the top all by herself! Annabell learned how to make a dream catcher in Art and how to use a bow and arrow at Archery. She got to meet other friends who were just like her, kids with wheelchairs, walkers, and crutches, and she doesn't find that at home. Camp was just plain fun for Annabell!

Annabell has stolen the hearts of all of the Roundup River Ranch staff and volunteers who have supported her at camp for the past three years. They can't resist her sweet, but spunky, personality and her kind demeanor. When she's not at camp, Annabell thinks about Roundup River Ranch often, and there's no doubt that everyone who meets Annabell at Camp thinks about her too.
